♪ [music] ♪Nursys QuickConfirm license verification is a free service that allows employers and the public to quickly search for a nurse's license and discipline information. Let's learn just how quick this confirmation is. QuickConfirm license verification utilizes the data found within NCSBN's Nursys application, which is the only national database for verification of nurse licensure, discipline, and practice privileges for RNs, APRNs, and LPN/VNs from participating boards.

It is comprised of data obtained directly from the licensure systems of U.S. boards of nursing and its territories through frequent, secure updates. Through a written agreement, participating boards have designated Nursys as their primary source equivalent and authorized Nursys to share publicly available data.

QuickConfirm license verification is simple to use. With just a few details about a nurse, you'll get the documentation you need in a snap. The site allows you to search for a nurse in a couple of different ways. Search by name, license type and state for a list of matching results, or search by license number, license type and state to get more accurate results.

You also have the option to search by the nurse's NCSBN ID. Locate and select the appropriate individual from the search results to view the report. The report summary page includes details such as licensee name, license type, licensing state, license number, if the license is active, license status, including disciplinary actions or board of nursing-issued publicly available alerts, original issued date of license, license expiration date, and compact status.

The authorization to practice map provides a visual representation of where a nurse can practice as a registered or licensed practical nurse. Both a map and list view are available. You can print or download the report in PDF format with or without the supporting documents.

Conveniently access licensure and disciplinary information, including publicly available alerts when you need it for free, with QuickConfirm license verification. Nursys QuickConfirm license verification is available any time from anywhere, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Visit Nursys.com today to get started.
